More color, prettier links, and less swimming

By popular demand ²⁵, I'm starting a regular series of posts summarizing the changes taking place in openstreetmap-website ²² – the main OSM website and API. I trawled the many merged pull requests ³ and commits ² from March 16 to today, distilling them into a hopefully more digestible list. Since the community here is mostly mappers and other casual website users rather than coders, I've mostly focused on user-facing changes.

In the future, I'll continue posting the updates to this thread roughly monthly. Please subscribe to this thread if you want to keep getting updates, or mute it if you already follow the osm-website project closely enough that I'd be insulting your intelligence.

Before I begin, I have a small request: if you have any feedback about an individual change described here, please start a new thread about it. To do this, select the bullet point you want to respond to, click Quote or press Q, click the Quote button next to my name, and click + Reply as linked topic. That way, I'll be able to reuse this thread without spamming the forum category. Thanks for your consideration.

Quote Edit

At the moment, I'm thinking some selected changes to for some time. I'll be trawling
